

YOUR NEXT READ

Science Fiction

Updated 11-30-2020

A Memory Called Empire

by Arkady Martine

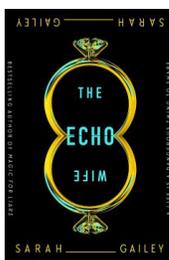

Taking over for an ambassador who died a suspicious death, Mahit Dzmare investigates the potential murder while navigating the alien culture of the multi-system Teixcalaanli Empire, which is hiding a technological secret that could impact the universe.

Harrow the Ninth

by Tamsyn Muir

A sequel to the best-selling Gideon the Ninth continues the story of Harrowhark Nonagesimus, whose failing health and uncooperative magic are complicated by the schemes of a would-be assassin in the twisted halls of the Emperor.

The Echo Wife

by Sarah Gailey

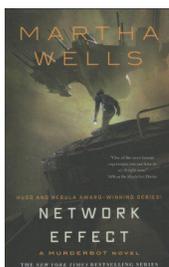

Evelyn Caldwell's husband Nathan has been having an affair - with Evelyn Caldwell. Or, to be exact, with a genetically cloned replica. After a morning that begins with a confrontation and ends with Nathan's body bleeding out on the kitchen floor, the two Caldwell wives will have to think fast before sharing everything includes sharing a jail cell.

Seven Devils

by Laura Lam

"Lam and May bring a multivoice story from a group of diverse, courageous females attempting to save themselves and their galaxy. Backstories and present-day actions are built into an alien setting, well-rounded characters, and an action-filled plot with themes of colonization, military manipulation, and conditioning." —Library Journal

Network effect

by Martha Wells

When Murderbot's human associates are captured and need its help, it must choose between inertia and drastic action, in this first, full-length standalone novel about a sentient murder machine programmed for destruction.

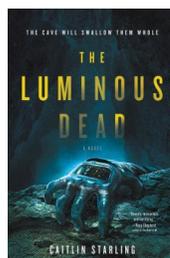

Updated 11-30-20

The Seep

by Chana Porter

Living in a utopian world shaped by alien invaders who make any dream possible, a 50-year-old trans woman is devastated by the end of her marriage before an unexpected quest pits her against the aliens' most avid supporters.

The Luminous Dead

by Caitlin Starling

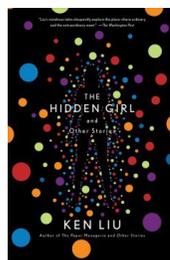

When Gyre Price lied her way into this expedition, she thought she'd be mapping mineral deposits, and that her biggest problems would be cave collapses and gear malfunctions. She also thought that the fat paycheck—enough to get her off-planet and on the trail of her mother—meant she'd get a skilled surface team, monitoring her suit and environment, keeping her safe. Keeping her sane

To Hold Up the Sky

by Cixin Liu

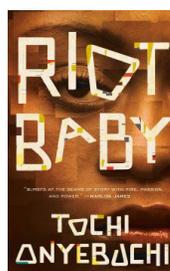

The Hugo Award-winning author of Supernova Era presents a collection of speculative science-fiction tales that envision the future and reimagine the past in settings ranging from the coal mines of China to the edges of frontier space.

The Hidden Girl and Other Stories

by Ken Liu

The award-winning author of The Grace of Kings presents a selection of 17 short science fiction and fantasy stories from the past five years that includes an excerpt from the third entry in his Dandelion Dynasty series.

Riot Baby

by Tochi Onyebuchi

The author of the award-winning young-adult novel Beasts Made of Night tackles youth, race and the carceral state with magical flair, in his adult-science-fiction debut.